To Be Ready for Companies October 14.

The lighting fixtures, which were delayed in being received, have been put in place and the building is ready to receive its apparatus and furnishings.

An Uncomfortable Day. The shirtwaist girl and the coatless man had another inning Thursday when the humidity, high temperature and April-like showers effected a combination that sent the fall wraps back to the camphor for at least another brief stay. The water that came down was welcome, for it was badly needed, but the dogday conditions that prevailed gave everyone a sticky feeling.

Members of McGregor post, G. A. R., are anticipating with pleasure a meeting that is to be held during October and at which a Confederate veteran is to speak on matters and incidents of the civil war.

Little Good Done by Kicking. "De fact dat kickin' don't accomplish much," said Uncle Eben, "is proved by de climate. Folks has been findin' fault wit' ever since I kin remember, an' it's jes' as botheracious as ever."

Tough. "This is an unjust world," sighed Harry the Hobo. "I've allers noticed that de poorer cook a woman is, de more likelier she is to have some cold vittles left fer me when I ast fer 'em!"

Do Well the Thing at Hand. Don't waste life in doubts and fears; spend yourself on the work before you, well assured that the right performance of the hour's duties will be the best preparation for the hours of ages that follow.—Emerson.

Giggling is Exempt. Now the chewing gum trust has reorganized to get a firmer grip on the jaws of our girls, but, thank heaven, no concern has proved strong enough so far to control the country's rippling giggles.—Houston Post.

Curfew for Joy Riders.

If the men and women who go whizzing about the country in powerful automobiles, late at night, were wise and good, their adventures would not be so disastrous. The fact is that few of them are good and none of them wise. The automobile seems to have originated a new species of insanity among many persons. They go speeding along the roads in the watches of the night when good people are asleep, except belated travelers, and woe for the wayfarer whom they fall upon. He may as well say his prayers and prepare for his end.

There is only one way to deal with these dangerous lunatics. They should be kept off the road. Speed laws are useless, for they will not obey them. The sole recourse is to order them to stay at home and, if they are caught at large, without reasonable explanations, to lock them up. A strict curfew ordinance for joy riders is what we need. They ought not to be allowed on the highways after dark, or midnight at latest.—Portland Oregonian.

Excitement in Texas. Between talks with Mars and running Joe Bailey for president, Texas is having the time of her life.—Atlanta Constitution.

No Evasion. So far in his round the circle speeches the president has shown no disposition to evade responsibility at any point for recent republican legislation. Whether his action be considered courage or hardihood, he is ready to make himself answerable for it all; he is even ready to invite criticism and unpopularity by defending it. Last night the special subject of his defence was the corporation tax. Of course as this was his own scheme anyway he could not do other than praise it. He spoke about it at all. But it might have been thought that he would pass over it in silence just now when so many industrial republicans here in the state are bitterly complaining of the annoyances and exactions of this tax. In the west, however, it is probably more popular than in the east, and his defence of it there may in a measure counteract his defence of the tariff rates, which are extremely unpopular in the west.—Providence Journal.

"I can't see how so many men stand it to eat in a cheap and noisy and untidy restaurant." "I suppose the explanation is as old as Adam." "What's that?" "The craving for food!"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.
